The program, which accesses the bond market on behalf of local governments, could not go to the market in 2008 because municipal bond insurers were downgraded or went out of business making borrowing prohibitive. Legislation was introduced and passed the General Assembly in 2009 providing authorities to restructure the LGIF program. It was signed by the Governor on May 19, 2009. The new authorities provide for the creation of a capital reserve as well as $2 million in state bond bill authorization. These two elements would work together with existing program authorities to get a strong rated issuance by the credit rating agencies.

Eligible improvements include hot water systems, lighting retrofits, insulation in the attic, floors and walls and to clean and tune the furnace. The number one priority is the implementation of this program with all of the necessary protections and transparency that are being required by the Federal Government without risking State reputation or resources. DHCD is working very closely with DHR, DLLR, MEA, GWIB, CETEC, State Stat, GDU, Workforce Sub-Cabinet, and the LWAs to make this a success.
9. Make New Buildings 15% More Energy Efficient by adopting 2009 International Energy Conservation Code	1/10	Benchmarks/Milestones: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. All code elements have been published allowing DHCD to proceed on adoption.</li> <li>2. DHCD submitted request to Division of State Documents and received approval for incorporation of codes by reference.</li> <li>3. May 2009: Awarded 2009 IBC, IRC, IEBC, IECC and Green Building training contracts.</li> <li>4. July 2010: Local jurisdictions adopt final codes.</li> </ol>	Not directly but training activities are measured		Background: DHCD administers the building codes for the state of Maryland. Every three years, new national building codes, including the International Energy Conservation Code (IECC), are developed and must be adopted by Maryland. The 2009 code adoption process is unique because there is increased focus on energy conservation measures. In fact SB 625 was passed by the legislature in 2009 and mandates that MD adopt the latest International Energy Conservation Codes (IECC). It also provides DHCD the authority to make the codes more stringent and prohibits DHCD from weakening the code. Finally, it mandates that local governments adopt the Maryland Building Performance Standards (all MD codes including the IECC) within 6 months after the state has adopted them. The industry and advocate groups have found that the 2009 codes are 15 percent more energy efficient than the 2006 codes – helping Maryland move towards the Empower Maryland 2015 goal of reducing per capita energy consumption by 15 percent.
